CHARLIE BECK, ET AL.
Defendants.

DECLARATION OF FRANKLIN E. ZIMRING IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Honorable R. Gary Klausner

[Opposition to Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment and Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment filed concurrently herewith]

I, Franklin E. Zimring, declare as follows:

1. My current academic appointment is William G. Simon Professor of Law, Wolfen Distinguished Scholar and Chair of the Criminal Justice Research Program at the University of California, Berkeley. I have been studying the relationship between firearms and violence, strategies of firearms control, and patterns of gun commerce and civilian gun usage since 1967. I have served as director of research of the task force on firearms of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence in 1968-1969 and as a firearms and federal criminal law expert for the National Commission on Reform of Federal Criminal Laws. I have published several empirical studies of firearms and violence and on gun control, and I have co-authored three books with firearms issues at their center, in 1969, 1986 and 1997. I have served as an expert both on the relationship between firearms and violence and on the design and evaluation of firearms control. I am providing expert opinions on both of these topics in this declaration. I was elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Criminology in 1993 and to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1990. A full curriculum vitae is Appendix A of this declaration.

1 2. This declaration will summarize the empirical evidence and my expert
2 opinions concerning four issues arising out of this litigation.

3 (1) The relationship between firearms and violence and the governmental 4 interest in reducing the rate of gun use in crime.

5 (2) The particular governmental concerns with handguns and other
6 concealable weapons because of their disproportionate involvement in life-
7 threatening crimes of violence, particularly in streets and other public places.

8 (3) The special threat posed by concealed handguns as weapons used by 9 criminals in streets and other public spaces. Persons using the streets cannot 10 avoid and police patrolling the streets cannot detect persons who carry concealed 11 handguns and later will find victims who are at risk when concealed guns are 12 displayed in robberies or assaults and not infrequently discharged. The 13 governmental interest in limiting the number of persons licensed to carry 14 weapons hidden on their persons in public places is substantially related to 15 reducing the volume and deadliness of street robberies and assaults.

16 (4) A robust right to own a handgun in the privacy of one's own home 17 imposes whatever risks the gun poses on the owner and his family and those who 18 choose to visit those premises as long as the gun stays home. But unlimited
19 freedom given to a person to carry a hidden handgun on the streets subjects
20 everybody else on the street to whatever risks that gun may pose, and the others
21 on the public fare have neither notice of the risk nor power to control it. This 22 "externality" of unrestricted street carrying of concealed weapons is probably the 23 root cause of the longstanding and broadly based history of restricting use of 24 concealed weapons in public places.

25 3. Firearms and the Death Rate from Violence.

26 The overlap between firearms and crime in the United States is a partial but 27 important one. Of all so-called "index" crimes reported to the police nationwide 28 (willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, burglary, aggravated assault, larceny over

1 $50, motor vehicle theft, and arson), guns are known to be involved in only about 4%.
2 But gun use is concentrated in violent crime, where about 20% of all offenses involve
3 guns. And when only criminal acts that kill are counted, guns account for almost 70%
4 of all cases. Why are gun cases seven out of every ten lethal crimes, if firearms are 5 used in only one out of five violent criminal acts? Commonsense suggests that the 6 greater dangerousness of guns when compared to other frequently used instruments of 7 attack such as knives and blunt instruments, plays a major role in increasing the death
8 rate from crimes, but there is an alternative hypothesis, that robbers and assaulters who 9 truly want to kill will choose guns more often, and therefore that the greater death rate
10 simply reflects the more lethal intentions of those who use guns. Which theory is better 11 supported by studying patterns of violent assault?

12 A series of studies that were conducted under my supervision addressed this issue
13 from 1967 to 1988. The first study compared knife and gun attacks in Chicago over 14 four police periods in 1967. I found that when one only compared gun and knife 15 assaults to the same part of the body and controlled for the number of wounds inflicted,
16 the gun attacks were five times as likely to kill.¹ Yet knives were the second most 17 deadly instruments used in violent assault. A second study found that guns that fired
18 smaller bullets were much less likely to kill than guns firing larger bullets, again
19 controlling for both the number of and the location of the most life-threatening wound.
20 The central finding was that instrumentality effects – the influences of weapon 21 dangerousness independent of measurable variations in the attacker's intent was an 22 important influence in the death rate from assault.²

23 A second set of studies generated the same general results for the weapons used 24 in robberies. Since the robber usually doesn't mean to inflict harm if his demands are

1 met, the death rate from all forms of robbery is much lower than from aggravated
2 assault, but robberies with firearms are much more likely to produce a victim's death
3 than robberies using knives or personal force.³ The availability of guns may or may not 4 influence the rate of robberies, but the proportion of robberies that involve guns will 5 have a major impact on the number of victims who die in robberies, and lethal robberies
6 are a major element in the life-threatening violence that sets U.S. cities apart from the 7 major metropolitan areas of other developed nations.

8 The governmental interest in restricting the use of guns in violent crime is in 9 reducing the number of deaths and life-threatening injuries that are produced when guns
10 rather than less deadly weapons became instruments of robbery and assault. This 11 interest is clear, appropriate and important for both the State of California and the 12 County and City of Los Angeles.

13 4. The Special Risks of Handguns.

14 All forms of firearms are very dangerous to life if they are used in assaults and 15 robberies, but the handgun is the major hazard, particularly in big cities, because 16 handguns are much more likely to be used in criminal violence than shotguns and rifles.
17 Handguns are slightly more than one-third of all firearms owned by civilians in the 18 United States, but they are used in more than 75% of all gun killings and in even larger 19 portions of robberies. The handgun is small, easy to carry and conceal, and deadly at 20 short range. Handguns are the priority concern of law enforcement everywhere.⁴

21 The special dangers of handgun use in violence have produced a wide variety of 22 different legal strategies to minimize the rate of handgun misuse. Many nations attempt 23 to restrict both the number of such firearms owned by citizens and reasons why citizens
24 might be permitted to own them. But California, like most U.S. states, allows

1 competent adults to own handguns if they have no major record of criminal conviction.

2 Because California does not restrict eligibility of most citizens to own handguns
3 or the volume of guns owned, the state's first line of defense against the use of such 4 weapons in street crime is a series of restrictions on the time, place and manner of 5 handgun use. California law prohibits the carrying of concealed deadly weapons in 6 public without a special permit. The state law delegates the authority to establish 7 standards and make individual decisions in Los Angeles to county and city law
8 enforcement and government. The goal here is to distinguish uses of handguns that do
9 not pose a special threat to the public (such as storage and use in the owner's home)
10 from uses that pose greater threats to public safety (such as the carrying of concealed 11 weapons in streets and public places). The special danger of a hidden handgun is that it
12 can be used against persons in public robbery and assault. The concealment of a 13 handgun means that other citizens and police don't know it is in their shared space until 14 it is brandished. Concealed handguns are a special problem for police because an 15 armed police officer has no warning that persons carrying concealed handguns are 16 doing so. A police officer will be vulnerable to an element of surprise that will not be 17 present if a person is openly carrying a firearm.

18 Of course not all of those carrying concealed handguns intend to use them as 19 instruments of public harm. But the existence of a loaded weapon is a hidden danger.
20 California's emphasis on controlling this risky use of guns rather than restricting 21 ownership itself is exactly opposite to the policy formerly pursued by Washington, D.C.
22 and disapproved in the Heller decision in 2008. The distinction between restricting 23 ownership and restricting dangerous uses is fundamental in the design of firearms
24 control. And no public law regulation of firearms is as old or as pervasive as 25 restrictions on public space use of firearms.

26 "The earliest and most numerous state and local laws relate to the carrying 27 or use of firearms. In the 1600s, Massachusetts prohibited the carrying of 28 defensive firearms in public places. Kentucky in 1813, Indiana in 1819, Arkansas and Georgia in 1837 passed laws prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons. Many states and most cities today have laws attempting to regulate what has been called the place and manner in which

1 firearms may be carried or used.”⁵

2 Almost all places make special rules for concealed handguns in public places.

3 “Most often, state law prohibits the carrying of concealable firearms
4 without a special permit and the discharge of guns within city
5 limits...Forty-nine states now impose some sort of restrictions on carrying 6 a concealed gun.”⁶

6 5. The Public Danger of Concealed Firearms.

7 The previous section of this declaration documented the statistical dominance of 8 handguns in life-threatening violence but did not explain it. Why are handguns, a 9 minority of all firearms, responsible for three-quarters of all firearms deaths? Why are 10 handguns the overwhelmingly predominant firearm used in armed robbery?

11 This is a matter of simple criminal logistics. Most firearms assaults and almost all 12 firearms robberies take place outside the offender’s home, so that using a firearm in 13 crime requires transporting it to a non-home location. But carrying a loaded shotgun to a 14 commercial location for a robbery or to somebody else’s home or on the street while 15 looking for a target is a warning to potential victims and a red flag to passersby and to 16 any law enforcement personnel that the armed pedestrian is not on an ordinary errand.
17 Other pedestrians and motorists can avoid the visibly armed person and police can ask 18 questions and subject the visibly armed person to identity checks and surveillance.

19 But the person with a concealed handgun in his pocket generates no special notice
20 until the weapon appears at his criminal destination. The robber or assaulter looks no
21 different from any other user of common public spaces. And this ability to escape special 22 scrutiny is the advantage that makes the concealed handgun the dominant weapon of 23 choice for gun criminals and a special danger to government efforts to keep public spaces

1 safe and secure.

2 The necessity of carrying guns to crime sites without detection is one reason why
3 the National Violence Commission research reported that 86% of all the firearms used in 4 all assaults were handguns and an astonishing 96% of all firearms robberies were 5 committed with handguns in the ten large cities the task force surveyed.⁷ What that 6 robbery percentage means is that the problem of gun robbery in American cities is almost 7 exclusively a problem of concealable handguns.

8 The stringent requirements that California, Los Angeles County and the City of 9 Los Angeles impose on persons wishing to have permits to carry loaded and concealed
10 guns have two strategic objectives. The first and most important is to restrict drastically
11 the number of persons secretly armed on the streets of Los Angeles County.

12 Figure 1 shows the current control of the volume of California concealed weapons
13 (CCW) permits and the huge stakes of shifting to the standards asserted as rights by the 14 plaintiff in this litigation. The current system of CCW licensing allows citizens in Los 15 Angeles to apply for CCW licenses either to the county sheriff or to their local police.
16 For this reason, only countywide rates of licensing can be determined without detail on 17 the city of residence for all who obtain county licenses. Figure 1 provides countywide
18 population and CCW data.

13
14 The rate per thousand adults of CCW permits is .16, indicating that fewer than one 15 of every 5,000 adults holds a permit. By contrast, a system where all persons without 16 felony convictions, convictions for domestic violence crime or involuntary mental health
17 commitments would make more than 90% of Los Angeles adults eligible for permits.
18 That would be just under seven million potential carriers.

19 Making the carrying of hidden deadly weapons into a very rare privilege enables 20 citizens not to worry that they must choose between carrying a gun themselves or being 21 unarmed in public spaces where many strangers are secretly armed. Restricting the 22 publicly entitled carriers of concealed handguns to a tiny number also reinforces the 23 practical monopoly of armed force by the police. And the police are one of the primary 24 groups protected by small rates of carrying concealed guns since more than 90% of 25 killings of police are with guns.*

26 The special vulnerability of police to weapons concealed on a person is the element
27 of surprise in the event of an attack. An openly carried firearm is a special danger to an

28 *U.S. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Law Enforcement

1 officer, but it is a known danger. The police officer can be prepared to draw or use his
2 weapon when a weapon is on display. But the person carrying a concealed handgun is a 3 hidden danger to an officer. High rates of carrying concealed weapons put the police on 4 the horns of a dangerous dilemma—either they (1) make no assumptions about persons
5 being armed (in which case they are surprised and at a disadvantage when a concealed 6 weapon is drawn) or (2) assume everybody is carrying a loaded gun in which case they 7 will be much quicker to draw and fire their own guns even if no weapons are in fact held 8 by the person being approached. So once a high rate of CCW takes place, the 9 relationship between armed police and citizens without any visible evidence of carrying 10 guns will get more dangerous for the police, for the citizen, or for both.

11 The second strategic aim of a permit-to-carry requirement is to screen those 12 persons who do have special needs for concealed guns to make sure they will not misuse
13 the guns they carry. This kind of risk screening explains the good character, minimum
14 age and lack of criminal record requirements. But the central reason to require a good
15 reason for needing a gun is to reduce the number of secretly armed citizens on the streets
16 and sidewalks of one of the biggest urban areas in the United States.

17 There is one factual dispute of central importance in the distinction between small 18 and large volumes of CCW permits—the degree to which criminal conduct is 19 concentrated among formally identified felons. It is sometimes claimed that simply 20 excluding former felons would prevent persons with high risks of future crime from 21 being eligible to carry hidden handguns. This claim is false. A majority of criminal 22 homicides and other serious crimes are committed by individuals who have not been 23 convicted of a felony. The first published study on this question found that in Chicago,
24 57% of those adults arrested for homicide did not have a felony record.⁹

25 It has more recently been reported that for all of New York State only 33% of all
26 persons arrested for felonies have a felony conviction at the time of arrest. Thus, about 27 Officers Killed and Assaulted (2008), Table 27.

28 ⁹P.J. Cook, J. Ludwig and A. Braqa, "Criminal Records of Homicide Offenders,"
Journal of the American Medical Association 294(5), August 3, 2005.

1 two-thirds of current felons would not be prohibited from eligibility under "shall issue"
2 criteria (meaning criteria wherein if a person has no prior felony conviction, domestic 3 violence conviction, or recent psychiatric commitment, said person would automatically
4 be entitled to a CCW permit).¹⁰

5 My efforts to obtain good estimates of the overlap between active felons and those 6 previous convicted of crimes that might render them ineligible to obtain "shall issue"
7 style CCW permits have not yet produced comprehensive data. The Los Angeles Police
8 Department provided information from 11 of 21 police divisions on homicide arrests,
9 covering 98 of the 221 homicide arrests for 2010, or about 44% of the total. Not included
10 were complicated and high profile cases assigned to the centralized Robbery Homicide
11 Division or killings involving child abuse. For the 98 reported persons, half had prior 12 felony convictions (49 of 98 or 50%), 38 had neither felony records nor prior convictions 13 for misdemeanors involving domestic violence (39%) and 11 other suspects had domestic 14 violence records that current state law uses as a basis for denying gun purchase eligibility
15 (11%). The rate of homicide arrestees with prior felony convictions taken from this 16 sample appears to possibly be inflated due to homicides of children and high-profile
17 homicide cases being excluded. Even with that inflated number, it still shows that 18 approximately 39% of all persons arrested for homicide in the City of Los Angeles had 19 no prior felony or domestic violence convictions, which means they would be allowed to 20 have a CCW permits under a "shall issue" policy. (See Declaration of Conrado Torrez).

21 We have broader data from the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, which 22 incorporates other cities in Los Angeles County. In 2009 there were 126,352 total 23 arrests, and 23,001 of them had prior felony convictions. (See Embom Decl., ¶ 3; 24 LASD Arrest Statistics 2009, available at www.lasd.org.) Of those arrested in 2009,
25 46,329 were felony arrests. (See id.) Thus, even assuming that every single person
26 arrested in 2009 that had a prior felony conviction was a person arrested for a felony, half

27
28 ¹⁰ Reported in expert's declaration of Philip J. Cook in Kachalsky v. Cacase, Civil Action 10-cv-5413, Southern District of New York (2011).

1 of the persons arrested for felonies in 2009 would have been eligible for a CCW permit in
2 a "shall issue" policy state. This 50% minimum estimate grossly understates the probable
3 proportion of felony arrests that are attributable to persons not prohibited from CCW
4 licenses under "shall issue" criteria. "

5 The State of California and the City and County of Los Angeles believe that it 6 would threaten the public health and safety to have hundreds of thousands of people in 7 the county carrying loaded handguns that the people who share the streets and stores and 8 parks of Los Angeles cannot see. Is this public choice consistent with D.C. v. Heller's
9 conferral of a right to handgun ownership under the Second Amendment? Los Angeles
10 has never tried to restrict home possession, so it obviously believes that public places call
11 for different presumptive policies, and history is on Los Angeles' side. Special 12 restrictions on carrying concealed weapons are venerable and almost universal. Even the 13 plaintiff in this suit does not question the legitimacy of a special license for carrying 14 weapons. The central question is whether publicly concealed weapons can be restricted
15 even if possession in the home is protected by Heller.

16 6. The External Dangers of Concealed Weapons in Public Spaces.

17 The right of home possession announced in the Heller case does not require 18 citizens to purchase and own handguns in their houses but rather confers on individuals
19 the right to decide for themselves if the benefits of gun possession in the home outweigh 20 the risks. So the Second Amendment liberty announced in Heller puts the homeowner in 21 a position of power to determine what risks to take. As long as the guns owned in the 22 home stay there, Mr. Smith's gun is no risk to his neighbors. But the presence of loaded 23

24 " The most comprehensive estimate of the aggregate criminal involvement of 25 persons not prohibited from CCW licenses by "shall issue" criteria is our request to the 26 California Department of Justice to provide the percentage of all felony arrests subject to 27 criminal record checks in 2010 that produced a felony conviction recorded in the state
28 data that would be used in any CCW screening. Because of a shortage of programmers related to the state's current fiscal problems, this data is not yet available. I will report it in a brief supplemental declaration when it is completed.

1 and concealed guns in public spaces is an act where Mr. Smith's decision will generate
2 risks to others who use the streets, and go to public accommodations. And if the guns are 3 concealed, the people who are exposed to these risks won't have notice or any ability to 4 avoid the armed presence they confront.

5 This "externality" means that the implications of concealed carrying are spread
6 over the community of users of public space and the only method of deciding policy is a 7 collective determination of whether concealed weapon carrying should be allowed and 8 under what circumstances.

9 So government must be involved in public space regulation in a way that is not 10 necessary in the privacy of individual homes. This is why concealed weapons laws are 11 the oldest form of legal regulation of gun use and the most common. There is a public
12 choice that must be made to reduce the number of persons carrying concealed weapons
13 by limiting licenses. But without a general rule on the standard for licenses, there is no 14 way that individual preferences for or against high rates of permits can be translated into 15 a regulatory framework.

16 I declare under penalty of perjury that the forgoing is true and correct. Executed at 17 Fort Walton Beach, Fla. this 11th of April 2011.

A&E COURT REPORTERS (213) 955-0070 FAX: (213) 955-0077

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 Q. The clan? What's your concern?

2 A. I'm only permitted to say that we parted
3 on mutually acceptable terms.

4 Q. Okay. Well, let's just refer to what you
5 indicated in your application, how about that?

6 A. Okay. That would be great.

7 Q. So referencing Exhibit 2, the letter that 8 you wrote.

9 A. Okay.

10 Q. You indicated that -- I believe that one
11 of your colleagues was threatened; is that correct?

12 A. Peter McNulty is a holder of a permit
13 issued by the L.A. County Sheriff's Department, as 14 is an associate of his.

15 Q. Were you ever threatened while you were 16 at the McNulty firm?

17 A. Yes.

18 Q. Did you report that to the police?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. When?

21 A. I believe there were two occasions where 22 we called 911 and nobody responded. I believe the 23 most recent was April of '09 and sometime in 2008.
24 I don't recall.

25 Q. So one time in '09 and one time in '08?

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 A. Specific threats to that office where we
2 called 911 and LAPD did not respond, yes.

3 Q. I'm not asking about threats to the 4 office. I'm asking about threats to you.

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. So you were personally threatened?

7 A. My physical safety was threatened.

8 Q. How was your physical safety threatened?

9 A. By angry people who advised they were 10 going to come to the office and potentially do us
11 harm.

12 Q. Did they advise you or somebody else?

13 A. I honestly do not recall what the first
14 incident revolved around. The second incident, I
15 became aware of as it was happening, and I
16 instructed an employee to call 911.

17 Q. So nobody ever showed up?

18 A. No, she was there in the lobby.

19 Q. Nobody from LAPD showed up?

20 A. Oh, correct, of course.

21 Q. And did you ever try to make a report
22 after that?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. So did you actually make a report?

25 A. No.

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 Q. What happened when you tried to make a
2 report?

3 A. We actually had a private security
4 company, an armed security company that responded
5 about 40 minutes later and they took the report,
6 and I don't recall the exact discussions between --
7 I don't recall how it worked out.

8 Q. To your knowledge, was LAPD ever
9 notified, other than the 911 call?

10 A. How else would you like us to notify 11 them, bon fire, SOS, mirrors?

12 Q. Did you ever actually walk into a police
13 station?

14 A. I have walked into a police station. I
15 did not walk into a police station on that 16 occasion.

17 Q. On either of those two incidents, to your 18 knowledge, was a police report ever generated?

19 A. I'm relatively certain there wasn't.

20 Q. You never spoke to anybody from LAPD
21 regarding either of those two incidents?

22 A. I have no recollection of doing that.

23 Q. Moving on. You're a volunteer judge?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. How often do you that?

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 claims disputes.

2 Q. As a volunteer judge, was your life or 3 your safety ever threatened?

4 A. I think the inherent nature of judicial 5 conduct creates a presumption of a safety concern.

6 Q. So were you ever threatened?

7 A. No.

8 Q. Did you ever fear for your life?

9 A. Every day.

10 Q. Handling high-profile cases?

11 A. Is that a question?

12 Q. Yes.

13 A. What is it?

14 Q. Did you handle any high-profile cases?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. Which ones?

17 A. I handled the endoscopy litigation in 18 Nevada, which resulted in several grand jury
19 indictments and a number of death threats made to 20 the firms I was associated with. I handled a 21 wrongful death case where the doctor was convicted
22 of murder and is sitting in jail. Are you looking 23 for just high-profile where it was in the news?

24 Q. I was actually just referring to your job
25 as a judge pro tem?

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 A. Oh, I'm sorry.

2 Q. Did you want to keep going?

3 A. No. As a judge pro tem nothing high-
4 profile at all. I'm sorry.

5 Q. That's okay. We'll get to those in a
6 little bit. You sit on a juvenile dependency court
7 panel?

8 A. Correct.

9 Q. What is that?

10 A. Well, there's two facets. There are 11 attorneys who are appointed by the juvenile 12 dependency court to review tort referrals, so that 13 where there's a ward who's dependent of the court,
14 if the counsel representing them believes they've 15 have been the victim of either negligence or abuse,
16 they write a referral report that is then passed on 17 to me or other attorneys on that panel in the order
18 of rotation to review, and then we make a
19 determination as to whether or not it merits
20 further investigation, and then we are granted
21 access to the confidential juvenile court file and 22 records and appointed as counsel to pursue that 23 action.

24 I'm also, because of that, and this is 25 the only thing I'm active in right now, on the

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 public counsel. They appoint guardian ad litem
2 for victims in the system to represent them and act
3 as their guardian ad litem, and I'm on that panel.
4 Currently I'm only guardian ad litem in one case,
5 and it's a teenage girl who was raped, and I
6 believe the gentleman's currently facing felony
7 charges for that.

8 Q. As a result of that position, have you
9 ever been threatened by either -- the children or 10 parents, your life, the life of your family or 11 anything to that regard?

12 A. Specifically, no.

13 Q. Impliedly?

14 A. I believe the gentleman who's facing
15 felony rape charges may be a little upset with me.

16 Q. Has he ever said anything to you?

17 A. No, I've never spoken to him.

18 Q. Why do you feel he's upset with you?

19 A. I believe it's a common practice for 20 litigants involved in emotional cases to react with 21 violence. I believe you could ask the family of 22 the Fresno lawyer who was shot in the head and 23 killed by having lunch with her client after a
24 contentious hearing, that being a lawyer can 25 sometimes be dangerous and people get emotional and

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 upset.

2 Q. Do you think that all lawyers should be
3 awarded CCW permits?

4 A. I believe that lawyers who have met the 5 training requirements and desire to exercise their 6 second amendment rights who are involved in 7 contentious litigation should certainly be able to 8 exercise that right.

9 Q. Would you agree that most lawyers are 10 involved in contentious litigation?

11 A. No.

12 Q. Why not?

13 A. Because I think a lot of lawyers do
14 transactional work. I think a lot of lawyers do a 15 lot of paperwork.

16 Q. So anybody that's involved in litigation
17 in general, do you think they should be getting CCW
18 permits?

19 A. I think what I think doesn't matter at 20 all, but generally speaking, I think those, as I
21 just said, involved in contentious litigation, who 22 seek the necessary training and express a desire to 23 exercise their constitutional rights, should be 24 permitted to do so.

25 Q. Do you do mostly civil or criminal?

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 law in Nevada?

2 A. I actually do all of my work for that
3 company in California, but I am licensed in Nevada.

4 Q. Okay. All right. The endoscopy
5 litigation, you said you received a number of death
6 threats as a result of that?

7 A. Well, they were called in to our office
8 in Nevada, but, yes.

9 Q. To you specifically or to the firm?

10 A. Nobody said "John Birdt, I'm going to put 11 a bomb in your car." It was "You lawyers should be 12 hung up and we're going to blow you up," and there
13 are a number of recorded messages, I think, that 14 were turned over to the grand jury. I don't recall
15 the specific language.

16 Q. The grand jury meaning there was a
17 criminal investigation into those threats
18 specifically or are you talking about the grand
19 jury in the endoscopy litigation?

20 A. I'm talking about the grand jury in the 21 endoscopy litigation.

22 Q. I don't want -- like what was it, what 23 were the facts?

24 A. There were only two clinics in Las Vegas
25 that did endoscopy and the physicians were

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 reusing -- they were billing Medicare for ten
2 milligram bottles of propofol but that were buying,
3 on sale, 100 milligram bottle of propofol and 4 reusing them from patient to patient, and so when 5 you have patient A, if you inject them twice with 6 propofol you go into the bottle twice, the second
7 time obviously with a contaminated needle. When 8 the next patient comes in and you draw propofol and 9 give it to the patient you give them hepatitis.
10 And the CDC actually came in and genetically
11 linked, I think, six or seven patients with the 12 hepatitis strain to the patient before them, and 13 they did a public recall in Nevada. I think they 14 estimated there were 50,000 people potentially 15 exposed to any sort of disease as a result of that.
16 And I represented several of the genetically-linked
17 patients, along with a couple classes and larger
18 groups of patients involved in that litigation.

19 Q. So how many, specifically, if you
20 remember, threats were called in and left on the 21 machine or whatever happened?

22 A. I only have a specific mental 23 recollection of one on that voice line. There were 24 other -- and it seems stupid. I'm not quite sure 25 why they would go after the lawyers trying to

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 vindicate it, and I think the tide turned the other
2 way once people finally realized what happened, but
3 there were other Internet postings, newspaper
4 articles, the Las Vegas Sun and the Las Vegas
5 Review Journal both have a like a web comment page,
6 and for some reason they're very active with that 7 in Las Vegas, and I recall several threats early on 8 directed against us. That tide quickly changed.

9 Q. How many attorneys were involved in that 10 litigation?

11 A. Well, eventually probably thousands,
12 pretty much all of them in Vegas. We had the first 13 case and the lead plaintiff. I think the original
14 class was not certified and we had a steering
15 committee of five firms, but it quickly became a
16 massive consolidated litigation with a specially
17 appointed master, and I think there were 40 or 50
18 firms at that point participating in that process,
19 and I was -- or I did the best I could to stay out 20 of that.

21 Q. Was this while you were still at the 22 McNulty law firm?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. How long ago was it?

25 A. I think I finished all of our expert

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 discovery November of 2009, and then over the 2 weekend before their experts were set to commence,
3 they filed bankruptcy, and everything -- I have no
4 idea what's happened since then.

5 Q. So the verbal threat that was left on the 6 voice mail, could you estimate what approximate
7 date that was?

8 A. Early '09.

9 Q. And did you ever make a police report?

10 A. No.

11 Q. Did anybody ever make a police report, to 12 your knowledge?

13 A. I don't know. I know that it was 14 reported to the district attorney. No -- actually,
15 I think it was reported to the metro, because 16 that's who we were communicating with, the metro
17 investigator. I think it was communicated to 18 her -- wait. I'm not sure who the point of contact
19 was on that one. I'm confusing it with another
20 investigator. Whoever the point of contact was, it
21 was communicated to law enforcement, let's put it
22 that way.

23 Q. Not by you?

24 A. Not by me.

25 Q. Did you ever speak to anybody in law

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 Q. So how specifically, by representing
2 victims of rape, are you in particular danger?

3 A. It creates contentious litigation and raw
4 feelings, and people in those situations do stupid
5 things.

6 Q. You specifically have not been threatened
7 as a result, correct?

8 A. I'm sorry, I didn't catch your whole
9 question.

10 Q. You specifically have not been threatened
11 as a result of your representation in these cases,
12 correct?

13 A. No direct threat by a specific individual
14 has been made against me, specifically, that I'm 15 aware of.

16 Q. What about your family?

17 A. No.

18 Q. How is this something that LAPD can't 19 handle?

20 A. Well, I guess the argument would be what 21 could LAPD handle. LAPD response time to my house,
22 even though they're three blocks away, is ten
23 minutes. Chief Bratton had his own personal police
24 officer follow him around all day long and he 25 apparently still needed a CCW, so apparently even

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 There has been no expressed threat, there has been
2 an implied threat based upon all of my activities
3 as described in my applications, paperwork and 4 discovery responses.

5 Q. What you've described to me, heretofore,
6 is generalized threat, you feel that you're 7 involved in some contentious litigation, that your 8 life could potentially be at risk, but there has 9 been no actual expressed or implied threat on your 10 life, just that you've been involved in contentious
11 litigation, am I wrong?

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. Am I wrong?

14 A. In so many ways I don't even know where 15 to start.

16 Q. Try.

17 A. You have an opinion. I disagree with 18 your opinion. The First Amendment gives us both 19 the right to have those opinions, the Second
20 Amendment confirms a right we already have, to bear
21 weapons for the purpose of self-defense.

22 Q. Okay. But let's get back to your answer.
23 I'm not really seeing where there's any expressed
24 or implied threat anywhere in your application. I
25 would like you to explain it to me.

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 A. I drove down the freeway today and,
2 apparently, sheriff's deputies involved in road
3 rage incidents pull out their service weapons and 4 return fire or open fire on people, so I was 5 impliedly threatened by driving here today.
6 There's a gentleman sitting in a secured building
7 with a
8 firearm on his side. I'm not aware of any present
9 threat to anybody's life, especially in a secured
10 building, or the need for that. Implied threats
11 exist all over the place.

12 I'm not quite sure what you're looking
13 for. I'm involved in a number of things. I don't 14 think the gentleman that shot the attorney in 15 Fresno last week previously stated an intent to 16 shoot her or her actions probably would have been 17 very different. I don't believe anybody told the 18 guy in Rolling Hills they were going to sneak up
19 behind his car and shoot him in the head. Did the 20 implied threat exist beforehand, I believe it
21 absolutely does.

22 Q. Well, let's focus on you and not them,
23 because they're not in this litigation and you are.

24 A. You're right, because they're dead.

25 Q. Right.

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 A. Attorneys involved in contentious
2 litigation who were shot by counterparts and are
3 dead in California recently, yes, that's an implied
4 threat.

5 Q. So let's focus on you and not them, okay?

6 A. Okay.

7 Q. You're saying that you feel there are 8 implied threats everywhere, every time you step
9 outside there's implied threats?

10 A. I think even without stepping outside,
11 but I also don't think that has any bearing 12 whatsoever on this litigation or whether or not the 13 city's policy violates my constitutional rights.

14 Q. How does it not have any bearing on that?

15 A. How does it? Do you have a policy that 16 violates the Second Amendment or not? I believe
17 your policy does, and I've set forth paperwork
18 showing why it does and provided you with case
19 authority. You apparently believe that it does 20 not, and that's why we are involved in litigation.
21 It has nothing to do with whether or not somebody's
22 actually chasing me down the street. I've made it
23 very clear to you that there have been no expressed threats; however, I'm involved in a great deal of activities that I believe put me at increased risk

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 if that were even required. I don't think it is.
2 I think most states, 43 of them, half the counties
3 in this state don't even require an applicant to 4 show any short of threat. All they have to say is 5 "I would like to defend myself, exercise my Second
6 Amendment right" and they're permitted to do so.

7 Q. Are you done?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. So if you are not seeking just a
10 definition of self-defense I'm still not clear what 11 you're seeking. You keep talking about how our 12 policy is unconstitutional and how policy is 13 violating your Second Amendment rights and 43 other 14 states accept self-defense, as well as half the 15 counties in this state, but you don't believe
16 that's the appropriate standard, is not 17 self-defense?

18 A. I'm not a politician, I'm not a 19 legislature. I do know that the politicians in 20 L.A. County are currently taking steps to ban
21 exposed open carry of firearms, leaving the only 22 available remedy in this city concealed carry. I know that state legislatures are taking steps to ban open carry, leaving the only remedy in the state concealed carry.

Jonathan Birdt February 22, 2011

1 Q. What is your understanding of why your
2 request was denied, your application was denied?

3 A. Because I did not meet the department
4 policy of good cause, which requires police reports
5 documenting an imminent threat of physical harm.

6 Q. And have you had any conversations with 7 anyone from the Sheriff's Department that would 8 lead you to believe that the denial was not based 9 on anything but that?

10 A. No.

11 Q. Earlier you talked about how you have 12 seen a list of CCW permits issued by the Sheriff's 13 Department, which we talked about off the record,
14 and in conjunction with that question and answer
15 you said that you have seen two applications
16 that -- from individuals who were on the Sheriff's 17 Department's list; is that correct?

18 A. Yes.

19 Q. Who are those two individuals?

20 A. Peter McNulty and Nanette James.

21 Q. Is that N-a-n-e-t-t-e?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. Now, Peter McNulty is someone you used to 24 work with, correct?

25 A. Yes.

DECLARATION OF ROLF EMBOM

I, ROLF EMBOM, declare as follows:

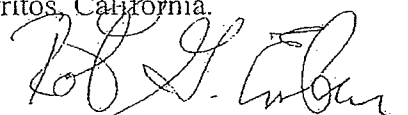

1. I am the Section Manager for the Los Angeles County Internal Services Department, Information Support Services Division, Client-Server Section. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein, except as to those stated on information and belief and, as to those, I am informed and believe them to be true. If called as a witness, I could and would competently testify to the matters stated herein.

2. One of the regular responsibilities of my section is to operate and maintain the criminal records system for Los Angeles County. One of the systems we operate and maintain is the Consolidated Criminal History Reporting System. I am readily familiar with the maintenance and operation of this system, as well as the procedures, policies, and practices related to its maintenance and function.

3. We created a computer program to ascertain from our records the number of adults arrested by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (LASD) who had prior felony convictions in the years 2008-2010. Our inquiry revealed the following. For 2008, there were 24,542 adults arrested by the LASD with prior felony convictions. For 2009, there were 23,001 adults arrested by the LASD with prior felony convictions. For 2010, there were 26,304 adults arrested by the LASD with prior felony convictions.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed on April 8, 2011, at , Cerritos, California.
